AHP Aged Care Speech Pathology Services: Our speech pathology services help older Australians improve communication skills and address swallowing disorders, enhancing their ability to express themselves and stay safe while eating.

We utilise speech pathology for older adults needing assistance in improving their articulation and clarity so that they can communicate more effectively with their loved ones. Speech pathology in aged care is grounded in helping with speech clarity by addressing specific challenges such as speech disorders, swallowing difficulties, and cognitive-communication impairments, ensuring individuals can maintain meaningful connections and quality of life.

As aged care specialists, our speech pathologists provide tailored support to improve memory, attention, and problem-solving skills that impact communication. These services are designed to enhance cognitive communication, helping individuals maintain independence and engage in meaningful interactions.
